

Barista

Up before the madding crowd
She preps and awaits her prey
Poised to deliver their morning fix
Their starter, to kick-start their day

For them she's comfort, always there
Barista, counsellor and their friend
They tell her their tales of weekends lost
And how this week they'll "make amends"

It's a many to one relationship
She smiles and takes it all in
She remembers each-and-every name
She's always there and listening

She makes each morning tolerable
With her smile that lifts your heart
With coffee ready to boost your body
Now complete... your day can start.

